THE MUTUALS MASHED.

Pine Game Between the Boston, "Reds" and the Mutuals-The Latter Defeated

The Boston Red Stockings and the Mutuals played the first of their championship games yesterday afternoon on the Union Grounds, Williams-burg, and the result was a signal defeat of the New York club, by a score of 9 to 2. There were present on the grounds about six thousand persons, while nearly as many more occupied every available posi-tion from which a sight of the grounds could be had from without the fence.

The playing of both nines was really brilliant in the field, the Mutuals having a little the best of it their red-legged adversaries. By a reference to the score it will be seen that George Wright and Gould led at the ash, while Spaulding and McVey fol-lewed close in their wake. As for the Mutnals' score of base hits, the least said, perhaps, the better; but if they cannot do better next time they had better quit. In the field Hat-Start, Eggler, Fulmer and Hicks bore off the honors, the former playing second base to perfection, while Hicks did not have a passed ball from Cummings. For the Bostons McVey and George Wright did the best execution, George making some really assonishing fine plays.

THE GAME.

The "Reds" won the toss and sent their greenlegged opponents to the ash. Hatfield led off with a nice grounder past first base, and as Rogers fumbled it Hatfield took two bags. Start hit to George Wright and retired at first. Pearce sent George a hot liner, which was muffed but picked up in time to beat Richard to first.
Eggier made a good foul-fair hit past third,
which brought Hatfield home, and, owing to Leonard juggling the ball, Eggier got to second base. Cummings got first on a high ball to centre field, Eggler scoring on the hit. Beechtel made the third hand out on a slow grounder to Barnes. Two runs, one earned.

third hand out on a slow grounder to Barnes. Two runs, one earned.

George Wright drove a liner to left, and got a base. Barnes hit a hot bounder to Pearce at short, and the result was a fine double play by Pearce, Hatfleid and Start. This sharp and effective play was enthusiastically applauded by the assemblage. Leonard earned a base, as did also McVey, the latter sending a beautiful liner to right centre, bringing Leonard home and himself going to third on Eggler's bad throw in. Spaulding earned a bag, but McVey was caught at the home plate by Pulmer and Hicks. One earned run.

THE SECOND INNING

MeVey was caught at the home plate by Pulmer and Hicks. One earned run.

THE SECOND INNIGE

resulted in the Mutuals being whitewashed, while their opponents, through an error by Fulmer, got in another run. By an over pitch by Cummings the "Reds" recorded another run in the third inning, but the "Mutes" took their second "goose egg." In the fourth inning the Bostons, through fine batting by Barnes and George Wright, scored another earned run. The Mutuals, however, took another glimpse at Chicago. Again, in the fitth inning, the New Yorkers failed to score, while the red-legged chaps got in three more canned runs—Gould making a magnificent three-base drive to right field. Spaulding hitting a calker to Eggler, (who, however, allowed it to pass through his legs, and the batter got to third hase instead of being held on first), and McVey sending a liner to centre field. Burthy this inning the assemblage was treated to another fine double play. Schaffer was on first base when Rogers sent up a high ball, which Hatfield get back. The point of excellence in the play was the manner in which Start took, the ball of the get back. The point of excellence in the play was the manner in which Start took the ball at first when Hatfield threw it. It came very warm and away to one side; but Joe put down his left hand and captured it, amid the cheers of the immense crowd.

and captured it, amid the cheers of the immense crowd.

THE SIXTH INNING

was marked by close and sharp playing on both sides, not a run being scored. The seventh and eighth innings were counterparts of the sixth, Fulmer and Eggler each making remarkably fine catches for the Mutuals, while George Wright bore off the pain for helding on behalf of his club. When the mith inning opened it was with the expectation on the part of the many friends of the Mutual Club present, that their boys would make a rally and bring their score up a little, to say the least, but they were disappointed. The Mutuals seemed and were utterly unable to bat Spaulding, who, it must be said, pitched with more than usual brilliancy and effect. In one, two, three order the "Mutes" were disposed of, and then their fively opponents went in and put on two more runs, earning one of them.

The following is the score, the column marked "E" indicating errors made:—

THEATRE COMIQUE. OSH HART.....

JOSH HART. Lessee and Manager.

OPINION OF THE NEW YORK HERALD, MAY 8.
Josh Hart's bill, just at present, is singularly varied and interesting. The first part of the performance consists of a medley of amusing variety business, all of which is good of its kind. It includes several comic sketches, in which John Hart spreads himself as a superbly funny megro, some songs by Miss Wray, John Manning and Larry Tooley, and graceful and astonishing aerobatics by Mons. Caron and his talented family. The second part of the bull is an infinitely mirthful local buriesque drama, entiled "Blue Monday," which is only remotely founded on fact, and is, therefore, an immense improvement upon its definient prototype of "Black Friday." Nobody, apparently, claims the merit of having penned it; but Mr. Kelly, as an aldermau, and Mr. Graver, as a burglar, and John Hart, as Joe sune, deserve a word of passing praise. The house is crammed nightly by this appetizing programme, and, in spite of our present "heated surp," maintains its numerical importance. As a variety show few performances are more deserving of support. To all who go there we can promise a pleasant evening.

[From the Evening Telegram, May 7.]

chere we can promise a pleasant evening.

[From the Evening Telegram, May 7.]

Subsequent to the performance of a very entertaining oll of variety acts last evening a dramatic sketch, bearing the significant title of "Blue Monday," was presented to a throng of spectators, which overcrowded the theatre, rendering comfort almost impossible. In fact, we are assured that some three hundred people were turned away from the door last evening, unable to obtain admission. The cause of all this rush was in the preduction of "Blue Monday," which, it was currently reported, was to give another stage representation of the late James Fisk, Jr., though without dabbling in any of the filleit incidents of his career. The piece as presented is simply a local sketch, abounding with the customary amount of humor and villany, and in which Mr. Josh Hart, as the well known "Unknown" (Fisk), made three several appearances, one as a financier, one on horseback as a colonel and the other as an admiral. The portly figure of Mr. Hart and his careful "make up" made him casily recognizable as Fisk, and, though he spoke not a word, the addience were apparently satisfied with the portraiture, for it was beartily applauded. As the play does not deal with anything instinating charges on other people's characters, no fault can be found with its morality; so those curious people who are desfrous of recalling the person of the Prince of Erie may do so during the present week, without learning to be offended by any suggestion of his immoralities.
